With the advent of Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect in 2014 and Bond Connect last year, these direct access points to Chinese financial markets have been game changers to investors. Recently, China has announced that foreign institutions will be able to own 51% controlling share (as oppose to 49%) in banks, securities companies and asset managers on shore. This panel will examine the impact of these access programs for China as well as the ability for foreign firms to compete on a level playing field.
